Join us at the Innovation Forum Programme in Tokyo on May 21, 2024, hosted at Toyo University Hakusan Campus. The event aims to delve into the dynamics of innovation, highlighting French-Japanese collaborations and the evolving landscape of Society 5.0. Kicking off with opening remarks from esteemed figures including Ikuko OKAMOTO, Director of Graduate School of GRS Toyo University, and Didier MARTY-DESSUS, Counsellor for Science and Technology at the French embassy, the event sets the stage for insightful discussions. Sessions throughout the day will showcase exemplary collaborations, such as the Institut Pasteur Japon and Valeo, illustrating the intersection of innovation and industry. A roundtable featuring distinguished scholars will explore different models of innovation tailored to Society 5.0. Delving deeper, experts will examine the case of care robotics, discussing its implications on healthcare and society. The INNOVCARE project, presented by Sébastien LECHEVALIER, will offer a glimpse into cutting-edge research initiatives. Keynote speaker Naonori KODATE will address the transition of care systems, touching upon welfare technologies, professional ethics, and organizational culture. The event will culminate in closing remarks and an engaging discussion, fostering collaboration and idea exchange at the forefront of innovation.
